

WHAT IS CLAIMED IS:

1. A gas balloon 1 having floating height control ability in air comprising a handle part 2a formed on lower central end of a balloon member 2 formed of silver foil coating layer 7 and outer surface fabric cloth layer 8 filled with a gas to allow the balloon to float in the air by buoyancy of said gas, characterized comprising in that the inside of the handle part 2a formed on the magnetic plate 3 is layed while at the outer part of the handle part 2a the plurality of large magnetic piece 5, and small magnetic piece 5a for controlling the weight are attached and connected.